England

The Tudor rose is the national floral emblem of England. It symbolizes the end of the Wars of the Roses.

Scotland

The national flower of Scotland is the thistle

Thistle is a prickly-leaved purple flower which was first used in the 15th century as a symbol of defence. The thistle has been a Scottish symbol for more than 500 years. It was found on ancient coins and coats of arms.

Wales

The national flower of Wales is the daffodil, which is traditionally worn on St. David's Day.

Northern Ireland

The national flower of Northern Ireland is the shamrock, a three-leaved plant similar to clover. It is a symbol of trinity

the Union Jack

The United Kingdom flag was officially adopted on January 1, 1801.

The flag of the UK is a combination of the flags of England (the cross of St. George), Scotland (the cross of St. Andrew), and Ireland (the cross of St. Patrick).

The Royal Banner of England

Scottish Royal banner

The Royal Flag of Scotland, or Rampart Lion, features a traditional red lion on a gold field. It is widely used as a second national flag.

The gold harp

David's Harp was the National Banner of Ireland for Many Centuries

The Wales flag

This flag was officially adopted in 1959, but the red dragon (possibly Roman in origin) has been associated with Wales for many centuries. The green and white background stripes represent the House of Tudor, a Welsh dynasty that once held the English throne.
