Annotation: This article talks about the factors of glorification of human value. The most important criteria and principles for the establishment of a “fair society – social state” in the new Uzbekistan were analyzed. In this case, the books, decisions, decrees and orders of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan Shavkat Mirziyoyev were defined as methodological resources.

Keywords: human dignity, the rule of law, a Just Society, a social state.

In the introduction to his book “The development strategy of the new Uzbekistan”, the President said “the world has never had the same Dawn. Thousands of years have passed since the appearance of this phrase. This means that the whole universe, nature and humanity are in constant change, in renewal. In fact, humanity also lives on the basis of this age-old law. The essence of the content, the nature of manifestation of any renewal is such,” [1,4] it is not for nothing that he expresses a philosophical opinion.

This law is also applied to the value system. In particular, changes and updates in our society are leaving their mark on a significant level in our value system, both in terms of the point of unity of cause and effect. This is not an accidental phenomenon. Taking a place among the developing countries in the world, keeping up with the current era, is what today requires.

President Sh.Mirziyoyev noted: “the establishment of a new Uzbekistan is not just a desire, a subjective phenomenon, but an objective necessity that has a fundamental historical basis, dictates the existing political – legal, socio – economic, spiritual – educational situation in our country itself, corresponds to the centuries-old aspirations of our people, fully meets its national interests.

Along this path, we must harness the knowledge and potential, strength and capabilities of the members of our society, the main driving force of our reforms, our entire perseverance. Only then will our country become a prosperous and prosperous state, which our people dream of, with a strong potential in the world arena, a worthy reputation.” [1,3]

This objective necessity, the emergence of a new Uzbekistan, is laying the groundwork for the implementation of important reforms that are the basis for its development. The fact that these reforms are in harmony with the new value system that is emerging in our society, both in theory and in practical terms, in harmony with each other, indicates the formation of a special variety in the image of our renewing society.

The main goal of reforms and political and legal updates carried out in our society today is to build a “Just Society – a social state”.

In the words of our President, “the most important feature of a just state is first of all that it is its main task to strengthen human dignity and the rule of law.” [1,20]

For this reason, the main goal of the legal reforms taking place in the life of our current society is manifested in the fact that first of all, the provision of human rights and freedoms is determined as the highest value in our democratic society, which is being built. A number of reforms have been carried out in recent years to create a fair court system in our country, to ensure that the court is open, transparent and independent, as well as to ensure that judges act within the framework of justice and law and become its real defenders and are strengthened within the framework of the law.

It is known that at the initiative of the head of our state, in 2017, the decree “development strategy of Uzbekistan for 2017-2021” was adopted. During this period, large-scale reforms were carried out in our judicial system, as well as in all spheres of our society. This, in turn, laid the groundwork for the independence of the judiciary, ensuring the human rights and freedoms of the courts, protecting their legitimate interests. Over the years, several laws, resolutions, and decrees have been passed regarding the judicial system. Regulatory legal acts in this direction were updated in accordance with the current reforms.

The adoption of the decree of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan dated December 7, 2020 “on measures to ensure the genuine independence of judges and increase the effectiveness of the Prevention of corruption in the judicial system” is considered an important proof of our opinion.

In addition, the appeal of the head of our state to the Supreme Assembly announced the consistent continuation of reforms aimed at ensuring the guaranteed protection of human rights and freedoms, the rule of law.

Literally admiring the systemic path of political and legal reforms, serving primarily in the interests of all segments of the population, it is important to find a practical solution to the existing problems in this area. In the value system of the new Uzbekistan, the provision of human rights and freedoms is gaining expression as the highest value.

Today, the main priority idea of the principle “from the strategy of action – towards the strategy of progress” in our republic and the placement of the agenda as the main criterion indicates the continuity of our active actions, its duration, which have been terribly implemented and effectively carried out in the life of our society over the past years.

In his speech on the festive table on the occasion of the Constitution Day of our President, “at the same time, we have a good idea that we still have to do a lot to bring the norms of our Constitution to life, to ensure the rule of law and justice in society, the more effective provision of human rights and interests, its dignity. We will consistently continue our large-scale reforms within the framework of the new Uzbekistan development strategy in order to carry out the tasks ahead of us,” he said. [2] During the correct past period, comprehensive measures, a number of reforms were carried out in this direction. However, we cannot say that all the problems in this direction have found their solution full-fledged dep. For this reason, it is now considered an urgent task of today in our legal sphere to drink the mechanisms that ensure the legal and legal interests of the population, comply with the requirements of the times, to carry out an effort to improve them in accordance.

Because the sharp changes taking place in the world today, the day-to-day expansion of the circle of social relations as a result of globalization, make the development of new approaches and principles in the political and legal sphere of our society a necessity. And the provision of its compatibility with our values serves as the political and legal basis of our emerging system of values.
